The Google Visualization API allows you to create visualization and reporting applications over structured data and helps integrate these directly into your website or on a Gadget. Google also released the Google API library wrappers to use with GWT.

But Visualization's Formatter classes are missing in current SDK. So I have decided to implement those missing classes.

You can download the Jar to use with your GWT application (released with Apache 2.0 license).

More..